- 1) Read the passage carefully and answer the questions given below:

One day when Newton was fifty years old and had been working for twenty years, went out of the room for some work. All his hard work was a heap of papers on the table near a lighted candle, which contained all the facts which Newton had found during those twenty years. He had a small dog named Diamond. Diamond was asleep near the table. When its master had gone, it rose up and jumped on the table and overthrew the lighted candle. The papers at once caught fire and burnt all of them into ashes. When Newton came back, he saw all his hard work had reduced to a heap of ashes. There stood little Diamond who had done all the mischief wagging its tail.

Newton knew Diamond was innocent and to be angry with him was useless. So he patted on the head as kindly as usual and said, "O Diamond! You little know the mischief you have done." He remained calm even later too Diamond always got the same lovely treatment from his great master.
